Certificates: an asset class in the investor portfolio

In a context of profound change, the search for performance seems as challenging as the need for protection. The use of certificates, giving access to a wide range of instruments able to satisfy even complex needs of investors, provides interesting investment responses. The certificates are in fact able to offer capital protection, returns in case of laterality of the market and offer interesting opportunities for compensation of losses. In this seminar was illustrated an introduction to the world of certificates, the multiple uses and the main structures. Slide downloadable. The slides are downloadable here.
